MANITOBA ELECTION CAMPAIGN PROMISES TO BE HARD FOUGHT

Provincial Elections on July 10 to be Preceded by Hot Campaign

LIBERAL PLATFORM OFFERS ADVANTAGES

Complete List of the Candidates
Nominated so Far—Eleven
More Seats

Winnipeg, June 21.—The Manitoba provincial elections, which take place this evening, are likely to be the keenest campaigns the province has known. Though both parties are active in the campaign, it is only a short time past, the pre-election fight resulted in a victory for the Conservatives, Roblin, and T. C. Norris, opposition leader, will tour the province to-day from now until July 10.

The Two Platforms

Sir Robert Borden gave to the country on his fourteen years' record and platform of his present party, adding thereto his own personal code, if practicable, a man upon whom the people could depend at most reasonable rates than previous rates set out by an incoming party.

The Liberal party appeals to the people that its platform includes compulsory education with regulation of hours, a "baptist the bar" referendum, and abolition of proprietary clubs; women's suffrage, and a bill of rights; rest legislation; municipal autonomy; hydro-electric development and good roads.

Increase in Seats

There are 52 seats in the new constituency of West Winnipeg, and adjustment West Winnipeg is eliminated and the city gets six members. The new constituency of Brandon to the south, north and centre of Brandon, and the new constituency of Le Poer is divided into three, the new territory now having three members. The new constituency of Swan and Sault Lake, and Churchill will be the fourth.

Candidates have already been nominated by the Conservative and Liberal parties, and the election will be held on July 10.

The keenest contest will be in the new constituency of Brandon, in North Winnipeg, two seats.

Two Social-Democratic candidates have been nominated, while an independent Liberal also joins the Liberal party. Dixon is running with the support of the Liberal party, and the Conservative candidate for the other Centre seat.

The election will be held on July 10.

TUESDAY, JUNE 23, 1914

The city council is still hating fire on the oil tax, and action is taken when the water rates will begin to suggest a design upon him. By letting the deficit accumulate until the carrying charges become burdensome an excuse would be provided for adding the loss to the year's tax bill and making the despoiled property-owner pay it. This might be popular in some quarters where the dominant element at the city hall have tried to carry favor by abusing the man who has to pay the taxes.

The Journal has been trying to twist the revelations of recent conditions in the city into proof that the police department last year was in an efficient state. That is a job that will keep it busy for a while. Undoubtedly conditions have been worse this year than last, but that the rate-payer got value for the money he spent on the former last year is a reasonable assumption of police duty and responsibility. If the Journal has either sense or a kindly regard for Mr. Carpenter it will not invite further attention to the efficiency of the police department under his management.

Thanks to the witnesses having disappeared, the charges against Wheeler and Barret had to be withdrawn. It may be, of course, that the witnesses have been presented and would have been acquitted. But it is a fact that had the accused not been allowed out on bail the witnesses would not have disappeared. If the accused had nothing to do with the witnesses disappearing it was not the fault of their being kept in custody. If the accused parties had anything to do with the disappearance of the witnesses it must be assumed that these could not have been kept in custody which would have made capital impossible. In cases of this sort bail should be granted only when it has been ascertained that the evidence against the parties will probably not be sufficient to convict. With all due deference, charges of extortion and of slavery are charges of a very serious character, and no opportunity should be given parties reasonably suspected of guilt to make away with either themselves or with witnesses.

According to the estimates of the Provincial Department of Agriculture there are about 320,000 acres more land under cultivation this year than last. The increase in wheat is small, the difference being mainly accounted for by the larger seeding of oats and barley. As there has been a noticeable trend toward stock-raising during the year, the increased acreage under grain seems not necessarily reflect the extent of agricultural development. The increase in the acreage of feed grains also indicates the drift toward hog and cattle production. In a nutshell the situation is this: There has been only a trifling increase in wheat, which is denied free admission to the U.S. because of the inaction of the Government at Ottawa; but there has been a large increase in the coarse grains, which are feed or meat animals, can be sent without free duty. The Alberta farmer evidently does not find exclusion from the U.S. market a good thing, nor admission to the U.S. market a thing of small consequence. The U.S. tariff is determining the trend of agriculture in Alberta today, despite the gentlemen of the Government and the Minister of Trade and Commerce on being made the recipients of honors at the hands of His Most Gracious Majesty. The more so that the fortunate gentlemen attain the distinction without having done anything particular to earn it.

"My policy," said Sir Rodmond Roblin at Carman, "is the policy of a man who is real to his word and the one that most ultimate if prevail if prohibition is ever accomplished." Prohibition, according to Sir Rodmond's plan, is attainable only by individual effort applied so assiduously to the reduction of the visible supply of booze as to beat the brewer at their own game.

"White Wolf" and his brigands continue their predations despite the efforts of the Chinese authorities to round them up. Now that they have taken to sack-mission stations, their operations can hardly continue to be regarded by foreign Powers as matters with which the people and government of China are solely concerned. The prospect is that the next call for foreign intervention will be from the Orient.

The reported discovery of reserves of coal in the fields west of the city is an event of importance. With proper respect to the oil development, coal mining still ranks second only to farming as the most important industry in Alberta. The better the quality available, the more varied the uses to which Alberta coal will be put, the larger the demand will be and the greater the investment and business that will follow.

Greec and Turkey are again on the verge of war. The admixture of hostile races on the Levantine shores of the Mediterranean provides the ready elements of a conflagration, which the Turk seems at all but destined to fan into an explosion. It was a mistake as well as a crime that the Powers in the East, in their efforts to prevent the "Modernity of Europe" There will be no abiding peace in that quarter until that is done.

Emigration from Great Britain to other parts of the Empire is only about half as large in volume as at this time last year. The quietness in Canada has undoubtedly been partly responsible for the shrinkage of the emigrant stream. That is due rather to conditions in Britain than to conditions abroad. While the newspaper dispatches may cause people over-seas to suppose that Englishmen have nothing to do, or are doing nothing, but the militants and debate the home rule question, English paper publisher in Canada is interested.

The arrival to the Imperial Parliament of a strong representation in the Senate was welcomed by the Senate so that it would take effect at the same time as the bill for the redistribution of seats in the House of Commons. On this amendment being moved in the Senate, Honourable Mr. Longhough announced that the Government would not accept, and emphasized the position by stating specifically that if the Senate insisted upon its amendment the Government would withdraw the Commons redistribution bill. This threat did not, however, deter the Senate from insisting on their amendment, and it was passed on the fair principle that the readjustment of representation in both houses should occur at the same time. If the Government were permitted to increase the Senate representation in the House of Commons, but no statement was made, and in the list of bills assented to by His Royal Highness, the bill for the readjustment of the representation of the House of Commons duly appeared. Just what passed in the councils of the Government in the interval between three and five o'clock will be publicly known, but the open parts are that they had jugged with three of the most important moments of the session and the last moments of the last day, and that when they undertook to force them through by bluff their bluff was duly called and they lay down.
